Our Approach

Our process starts with business requirement analysis, specification, design, architecture, implementation, testing and integration of the system with other systems. We have experienced and certified Project Management Professionals (PMPs) to handle all sorts of issues that may arise during geographically dislocated projects.

We follow very stable and latest methodologies like agile technologies both in project management and software life cycle development. Iterative and incremental approaches help us fix the issues in the beginning.

We also work closely with client's in-house IT personnel to jointly analyze, design, develop, test, implement, and integrate with new systems. We provide staff augmentation both onsite and offshore to bridge the gaps wherever needed.
